TAKING STOCK FOR NEW CAR LINE

Real Estate Interests Would Construct Road Miles West of City.

Stock is being subscribed by property owners west of the present city limits for a proposed street car line projected to develop a large section and make accessible for building thousands of lots, many of which have recently been placed on the market. The plans are yet in a tentative shape, but it was stated last night by one of the largest real estate operators in the section that it was expected the line would be built from a point on Broad Street, Road west of the Belt Line, directly out Cuthaw Avenue for several miles to the Horsepen Road. So far subscriptions and right-of-way have been secured only to the Chantilly tract.

Eventually the line may be pushed westward to Richmond College and brought over the Broad Street bridge and over the Belt Line, connecting with existing lines. It was stated that the new line was being promoted on a subscription basis and was not backed by either of the street railway companies operating in Richmond, though it hopes to secure current from one or the other. The Virginia Railway and Power Company has recently secured a franchise for a line out Broad Street Road to the corporate limits, just at the Belt Line bridge, to be built this summer. It is stated that the Richmond and Henrico Company has submitted a proposal for furnishing current to the new line for a period of three years. At the expiration of that period the promoters believe there will have been sufficient building to justify one or the other of the street railway companies operating here in taking it over. As planned at the outset, however, there will be no physical connection with existing lines and no provision for transfer.

The plans will be laid before the Board of Supervisors of Henrico County shortly. As it is a local line, built by subscription to develop the country, it is believed that the supervisors will not raise the objections to the use of county roads that caused the rejection last week of the permit for rebuilding the line to the State Fair grounds.

SPRING INSPECTION

Richmond's Finest Will Go on Review
Next Wednesday Afternoon.
The spring inspection of the Police Department, when all policemen will turn out in new summer uniforms, will take place next Wednesday afternoon.

Station houses and commands will be inspected by the following committee from the Board of Police Commissioners:
First District: Commissioners McCarthy, Goode and Parker.
Second District: Commissioners Weil, Gordon, Boykin and Thomas.
Third District: Commissioner Bradley.

With the exception of the regulation cap for members of the traffic squad, instead of the white helmets used last summer, there will be no change in the uniforms of the officers.
Immediately following the inspection the commissioners will hold their monthly meeting in the office of Chief of Police Werner.

UNION SEMINARY FINALS NEXT WEEK

Largest Class in History of Institution to Receive Diplomas on Wednesday.

MARKS END OF BANNER YEAR

Forty-One New Ministers for Lord's Work, Fifteen of Whom Go Abroad.

Union Theological Seminary graduates next week the largest class of ministerial students ever sent from any institution in the Southern Presbyterian Church in a single year. Of the forty-one members of the class of 1913, fifteen expect to begin their labors in the foreign field. In the session about to close—the one hundred and first year of the seminary—the record for enrollment was broken by the matriculation of 197 students. The registration of students for the next session indicates a large attendance.

Rev. John A. Wells, D. D., of Wilmington, N. C., will preach the baccalaureate sermon to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock in the chapel of the seminary. The annual address to the Society of Missionary Inquiry will be delivered to-morrow night at 8 o'clock by W. T. Ellis, of Swarthmore, Pa. The address to the graduating class will be given Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock by the Rev. W. R. Laird, D. D., of Danville.

Two Famous Lecturers.
The lectures on the James Sprunt Foundation for next year will attract two famous scholars to the seminary. William M. Ramsay, D. D., LL. D., of Edinburgh, Scotland, explorer and scholar, and the Rev. James Stalker, D. D., LL. D., the distinguished professor and author of Aberdeen, Scotland. Sir William Ramsay, who will speak in October, will have for his subject "The Bearing of Recent Discoveries on the Truth of the New Testament," while Dr. Stalker will speak in April, 1914, on "Religious Psychology."

Features in the session just closed were not lacking. Notable among these was the celebration jointly with the Synods of Virginia and North Carolina of the 100th anniversary of the founding of the seminary. The gift of $15,000 by George W. Watts for the establishment of the Walter W. Moore Foundation, under the imprimatur of the first lecture on the Sprunt Foundation was delivered by Dr. David James Burrell, of New York, the series of addresses being printed in book form afterward under the imprimatur of the seminary.

Watts, president of the board of trustees, on next Wednesday morning is as follows: Graham Anderson, Wesley Baker, William McIlwain Baker, Charles Claude Beam, Hermann Bischof, Theophilus Walton Clapp, John Curtis Crane, Paul Sackett Crane, Eric Davenport Curtis, Thomas Caldwell Delaney, David Witherspoon Dodge, Richard Daniel Dodge, Wade Hamilton Eubank, Ernest Ireland Flanagan, Wiley Parker Gibbs, Walter Hall Goodman, James Earl Guthrie, James Woodrow Hassell, John William Hickman, Benjamin Rice Lacy, Jr., Richard Venable Lancaster, Abram Troy Lassiter, Robert Ormond Lucke, Charles Gwyn Lynch, John Marshall Millard, Henry Flournoy Morton, William Wilson Morton, Joseph James Murray, Charles Claude Myers, Walter Wellington Pharr, John Langdon Rogers, John W. REHEARSE CHORUS OF MAY FESTIVAL

Singers Will Arrive To-Day for Wednesday Club Concerts
Next Week.

The rehearsal of the Wednesday Club Chorus at the City Auditorium last night proved to be satisfactory in the extreme, the voice of the singers blending in perfect harmony under the direction of Prof. W. Henry Baker. The members of the chorus are in tip-top condition for the rehearsal which will be held to-night at the City Auditorium, in which the noted song birds will participate, and for which the Metropolitan Opera Company's orchestra will play.

These rehearsals are in final preparation for the May Music Festival, which will be given Monday night, Tuesday matinee and Tuesday night, under the auspices of the Wednesday Club. Singers of international reputation, whose names are known in every household where there is a musical instrument, will arrive to-day on a special Pullman, and will have Sunday in which to rest and be prepared for the three performances, which will call for their best efforts.

These May music festivals are gaining in popularity year by year, and this season's attendance promises to fulfill the anticipation of those who have labored and risked much money in order to bring to Richmond the very best talent of the musical world.

News of Petersburg

The Times-Dispatch Bureau,
5 Bollingbrook Street,
Petersburg, Va., May 2, 1913.
(Telephone 1453).

Interesting exercises marked the meeting of A. P. Hill Camp of Confederate Veterans last night, the occasion being the presentation to the camp by Mrs. William C. Smith, of Nashville, Tenn., of a remnant of the flag staff of the Twelfth Virginia Regiment, Mahone's Brigade, which had been borne by her husband, the late Col. William C. Smith, in the brigade's famous charge in the Battle of the Crater. In Colonel (then Ensign) Smith's hands the flag of the regiment was torn and riddled by the enemy's bullets, and the staff was shot in two, and the remnant which was presented last night was sacredly preserved. Colonel Smith, commanding the Second Tennessee Regiment of Volunteers, subsequently fell on the firing line in the Philippines.

The presentation address last night was delivered by Richard B. Davis, a veteran of the Twelfth Regiment, who followed the flag in the Battle of the Crater and on other fields of strife. His address was one of special interest, and of historic value, containing as it did a graphic description of the charge and battle, and of scenes and incidents witnessed by him.

The address of acceptance on behalf of the camp was delivered by Robert Gilliam, Sr., who embraced in his speech the reading of a letter written by Colonel Smith, containing a description of scenes and incidents of the battle and history of the flag. The flag carried into the Battle of the Crater was compared to new and untouched by a bullet of the enemy. The old flag had been so badly torn in battle that it had been put away for safekeeping. In the Battle of the Crater the new flag was literally riddled by bullets and the staff shattered, having been struck by three balls. It was thrice planted on the captured works and as many times shot down. Examination after the battle showed that the flag had been pierced by seventy-five shots and that the staff had been struck nine times. The flag was subsequently transferred to the staff of a flag captured from the enemy, and was thus carried until the surrender at Appomattox. The remnant of the old Twelfth's staff was kept by Colonel Smith as a sacred relic, and was so preserved by Mrs. Smith.

The camp, after the reading of the letter, on motion of Mr. Gilliam, gave a unanimous vote of thanks to Mrs. Smith for her gift, with the assurance that it should be sacredly cherished. Brief addresses were also delivered by St. George Bryan, George W. Hull, past commander of the Departments of California and Nevada, and Mr. James A. Northern visitor. Other features marked the evening's exercises.
